

PLAN TO OBSERVE CENTURY OF PEACE

Richmond Committee Will Organize To-Night for International Celebration.

BIG MEETING IN DECEMBER

Nation's Big Men Will Gather Here to Plan Country-wide Movement.

The movement for the celebration of the century of peace that has obtained between English-speaking peoples will receive its first local impetus to-night at the Jefferson Hotel, where more than 200 members of a peace committee, appointed last week by Mayor Ainslie, will gather to perfect an organization. The meeting will take place at 8:15 o'clock.

In effecting an organization to take care of the local end of the international celebration, Richmond joins a long list of prominent cities in this country, Canada and England, that have taken similar action. A national committee for America, with Theodore Roosevelt as honorary chairman, is in charge of the celebration for the United States, and will in a series of conferences to be held shortly, outline plans for local celebrations to be held throughout the country.

At the meeting to-night the committee will first address itself to the task of effecting a permanent organization. This accomplished, the meeting will discuss informally plans for a Richmond celebration of the big centennial, deferring the more informal discussion of the project until after the meeting of the American Committee in Richmond next December.

To meet here in December, it was announced yesterday for the first time that the American Committee has fixed December 3 and 4 for the meeting in Richmond. This will take place in the Jefferson Hotel, and will bring to this city a distinguished gathering of public men. The meeting will be attended by about 200 delegates.

Andrew Carnegie, chairman of the national committee having the country-wide celebration in charge. The vice-chairmen are Edwin Ginn, John D. Crimmins, Albert K. Smiley and Oscar S. Straus. John A. Stewart, of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the national organization, discussing recently the meeting in this city, said:

"At the Richmond conference we shall try particularly to block out some recommendations to make to the various States and, as well, arrange such data for the celebration as will permit each celebration to come into no conflict with any other celebration. To the end that every celebration may be in itself a complete and unique center of the stage, and, therefore, the center of public attention."

To formulate address, the Richmond conference will address itself to the task of formulating an address to the people of the country, setting forth the objects of the celebration, and, in particular, to arrange for celebrating in some significant way the peace which has existed between America, Germany, France and other nations outside of the English-speaking world, and to make this one of the chief features of the general celebration.

The Chamber of Commerce has joined in the work of promoting a local peace celebration and will shortly announce a special committee of notable persons. One of the members will be Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the Medical College of Virginia, who, before his removal to Richmond, was one of the five members of the Southern States Committee of the national organization.

Appropriate for Richmond, "Richmond is a prominent place in this notable celebration," said Dr. Mitchell, discussing the movement yesterday. "The outstanding features in the movement for international peace are Hugo Grotius and John Marshall. Hugo Grotius was the founder of international law. John Marshall was the maker of the Supreme Court. The latter, Grotius, which is now regarded as a model for a court of the nations. Just as The Hague conferences were drawn to Holland by the work and memory of Hugo Grotius, so it is proper that this conference be drawn to Richmond by the memory and work of John Marshall."

The immediate purpose of the international movement now under way is to celebrate the fact that since the signing of the Treaty of Ghent on December 23, 1814, there has been no war between this country and England. In 1814 the Treaty of Ghent was 99 years old, and the centennial will be observed with appropriate ceremonies in every large city in America, Canada and Great Britain.

Allied to Peace Movement, Only indirectly is the celebration allied to the great movement for universal peace which numbers among its votaries men of the highest caliber, as Henry Watterson, Andrew Carnegie and the Earl of the Russias. The observance of the hundredth birthday of the Treaty of Ghent will bring the peace idea prominently in the foreground, and in this way add to the forces making for universal peace.

"The peace movement has become practical," said Dr. Mitchell, directing attention to the work of the two Hague conferences which succeeded finally in establishing an international court of arbitral justice for the settlement of nations, the method of selecting the judges only being left open. "How can forty-four sovereign nations select fifteen judges to decide cases rising among them? This is the problem to solve. Solved it will be, how we know not. John Marshall showed how forty-eight States can have their disputes settled by a Supreme Court, and a John Marshall for mankind will arise."

TIGNOR'S DEATH CAUSED BY FALL

Carpenter Tumbles Into Ditch and Blow Ruptures Blood Vessel in His Brain.

STRUCK COBBLE STONES

Companions Taken in Custody, but Later Exonerated of Any Blame in Matter.

The death of Lee B. Tignor, twenty-three years old, a carpenter, of 316 North Twenty-sixth Street, who was found dying in a ditch about fifty yards from the docks of the Old Dominion Steamship Company yesterday morning before daylight, was due to a blow on the head sustained when he fell and ruptured a blood vessel in the brain, causing a hemorrhage. Coroner Taylor gave this as the cause last night after he had made a thorough examination of the body. It was clearly an accident. None of the men who were taken in custody and later exonerated of any blame in the matter.

Tignor's death was the subject of a sweeping investigation by the police. His two companions, Fred Bonaldi, of 1728 East Marshall Street, and Arthur Davis, of Glen Allen, were temporarily detained, but were released from custody when it was ascertained there had been no foul play.

The dead man, who was a brother of Policeman G. R. Tignor, of the Second District, with Bonaldi and Davis, participated in an excursion down the river Tuesday night. When they returned, according to information obtained by the police, Tignor was so drunk that his companions would not take him to his home.

Sat Him By Pole, They practically had to carry him from the wharf. They decided to place him in a sitting posture by a telegraph pole, and the two then went to sleep by his side.

Bonaldi awoke suddenly about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and heard Tignor faintly calling for help. He aroused Davis, and together they found Tignor in the ditch. He was partially submerged in the few inches of water which covered the gully, about eighteen inches deep. The bottom was covered with cobbles and stones. Tignor was moaning, but neither Davis nor Bonaldi could understand what he said. Davis went in search of a policeman, and Bonaldi tried to revive his friend. Davis returned and said he had been unable to find a policeman. Bonaldi sought the watchman at the Old Dominion wharf, and a call was sent to the First Police Station. In a few minutes a patrol wagon and the City Hospital ambulance arrived. Dr. M. F. Forrester pronounced Tignor dead. However, with the hope that he might be revived, he was removed to the station and the surgeon worked over him for a long while, but there were no signs of life, and Coroner Taylor was notified.

Bonaldi and Davis Arrested, Detective-Sergeant Wiley and Bicycle Policeman Botto placed Davis and Bonaldi under arrest on the charge of being drunk, and at once started upon the investigation. Dr. Taylor made careful inquiry into the case, and arrived at the conclusion that Tignor had fallen into the ditch while drunk, and his head on the cobble-stones which resulted in his death.

When Bonaldi and Davis were taken to Police Court they were discharged at the request of the officers. The same day the tragedy related by each of them were straightened out. Coroner Taylor said there would be no necessity for an inquest.

YOUNG TEACHER AWAIT OFFICERS

They Will Take Him to West Virginia to Stand Trial.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Greensboro, September 3.—It was said at the sheriff's office here to-day that no further word had been received from West Virginia officials in regard to the case against Willie McClung, the young teacher in Greensboro Commercial School, who was arrested Monday on telegram from the sheriff of Nicholas County, West Virginia. It is expected that an official will arrive from West Virginia soon to take McClung back to his native county for trial.

A letter has been received by Elliott McClung, a brother here, which indicates the nature of the case against Willie. This letter is as follows: "Will drop you a line to-day. Willie McClung was found dead yesterday, and John McClung swore out a warrant for father, Tolle and me, and father and I are seated at the Lehighway now. Let Tolle know this when he arrives, and tell him we will let him know when to come home. If the officer does not go after him. Will write you often."

This is signed by Alvin McClung. It develops that there has long been a family feud and bad feeling between two brothers of the McClung family and their children. McGee McClung, who sent one of the telegrams here, is a son of the dead man, and a cousin of the youth in jail here.

Goes Back to Face Trial, [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., September 3.—Sheriff O. S. Wilson, of Washington County, O., came here to-day to identify Walter Baldock, who is charged with robbing the home of his employer, Clark Post, a farmer, living near that city, and Baldock was found to be wearing, in jail, some of the clothing alleged to have been stolen. Baldock has signed the name of the Virginia Penitentiary for a similar offense here. He goes back without extradition.

Fall Proves Fatal, [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Harrisonburg, Va., September 3.—A fall of fifteen feet from a second-story window caused the death of Miss Rhoda Batten, an aged woman at Crimora, Augusta County, at a hotel where she lost her balance while trying to lower a window.

Charge Not Proved, [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., September 3.—In the Corporation Court to-day W. M. Mason, a Campbell County farmer, was acquitted of a forgery charge. It was charged that he signed the name of Fleming Saunders to a $15 note which was uttered.

GAYNOR ACCEPTS DENOMINATION

Crowd That Jams City Hall Park Hears Mayor's Address Read.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, September 3.—In the presence of a crowd that jammed City Hall Park, Mayor William J. Gaynor to-day was tendered and accepted his acceptance of a denomination for Mayor. The offer was tendered by Jacob H. Schiff, Ross Appleton and Henry C. Lewis, on behalf of a committee representing several independent political organizations. Mayor Gaynor was pale and evidently near a physical collapse, while his secretary read the speech of acceptance.

Although the number of onlookers was great, the number of delegates from the numerous Gaynor clubs who turned out for the occasion was decidedly small. The delegates from Richmond County failed to appear at all, and the three and four delegates from the numerous Gaynor clubs who turned out for the occasion was decidedly small. The delegates from Richmond County failed to appear at all, and the three and four delegates from the numerous Gaynor clubs who turned out for the occasion was decidedly small.

It was learned to-day that Mayor Gaynor will decide who shall be his running mates, and that the endorsement will be made to McNamany, Pendergast or other Fusion nominees until after the primaries.

To-morrow the Mayor goes to the Adirondacks to confer with his recent illness, which he described to-day as an effort on the part of nature to dislodge the bullet that was fired at him three years ago, and still lingers in his neck.

MULHALL OBJECTS TO KIRBY'S FACES

Says Former Employer Sticks Out Tongue at Him as He Testifies.

Washington, September 3.—Martin Mulhall, who confessed lobbyist, interrupted his testimony before the House Lobby Investigating Committee to-day with a violent protest against the presence of John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, whom Mulhall accused of "making faces at me."

The scene was amusing and dramatic, and Chairman Garrett had difficulty in restoring order. "Make him stop," shouted Mulhall. "He's over there making faces and sticking out his tongue at me. He's a dirty coward, and I won't testify for him unless he is made to stop. He tried those tactics before the Senate Committee."

Mr. Kirby smiled at Mulhall's tirade. Members of the committee said they had not noticed unseemly conduct on the part of Mulhall to-day. Mulhall's testimony to-day was of routine character. It consisted of the identification of correspondence already in the record. He dwelt particularly on aid he claimed to have rendered former Representative Littlefield, of Maine, in the 1906 campaign.

David Lamar, the "Wolf of Wall Street," appeared at the afternoon session, and offered to testify regarding "a powerful railroad lobby in 1910," repeating the offer he recently made to the Senate investigators. The House committee took no action on Lamar's offer to testify, but declined to give details of his testimony in advance.

The Senate lobby inquiry committee to-day adjourned indefinitely.

WOOD IMPROVE ALL NAVY YARDS

Secretary Daniels Wants Them Kept in State of High Efficiency.

Washington, September 3.—Improvements and increased facilities for practically every navy yard along the Atlantic coast, from Boston to Key West, were submitted to Secretary Daniels to-day by a special board which has just completed an investigation of conditions at the various plants. Special attention was given to the subject of a great naval station on the Gulf of Mexico, necessary on account of the Panama Canal, and Pensacola, Fla., was recommended as the best site for such an establishment.

While recommending extensions and improvements at New York and Portsmouth, the board expressed the opinion that the increasing congestion of commerce at these ports soon would compel the department to give up its stations there.

Contract facilities for construction are entirely inadequate, the board reported. Any delay in building up the navy yards on the expectation that private plants can be depended on to meet the increasing demands of the navy, said: "Impairs our naval efficiency and is a menace of our first line of national defense."

It was suggested that the navy should possess two stations on the Atlantic coast and one on the Pacific, with facilities for undertaking the work of building a battleship on short notice.

EMPLOYEES ACCEPT TERMS, AND STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

Boston, Mass., September 3.—The strike of employees of the Sturtevant Blower Works, in Hyde Park, controlled by Governor E. S. Ross, was ended to-night by the acceptance by the strikers of terms offered by the management. No details of the agreement were made public.

It was reported that the strike at the Becker Milling Machine Works, also controlled by the Governor, will continue. Employees of both plants have been out since June 1. They demand an increase in wages and improved working conditions.

About 1,200 men and women struck at the Sturtevant works, and 200 at the Becker plant.

Hedrick, of Albany, was elected to a third term as president of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America to-day. J. C. FASHION ATTRACTS MEN AND WOMEN

Merchants Prepare for Great Opening on September 23, 24, 25, 26.

ALL WAITING FOR THE SHOW

Interest Is No Longer Confined to Women, for Men Are Just as Eager.

The millinery stores, where the women most do congregate in the proper seasons, were the inaugurators of the fall and spring display openings. All the women love to look upon pretty millinery, and all women dote on a show that is of that kind. The millinery stores had not long set the pace before the dry goods stores caught on and followed suit. Then the clothing store people took the hint. These latter argued that men were, or ought to be, much interested in the fashions that pertained to their wardrobe as they do to gowns and hats and gloves, etc. The dealers in shoes and various other things then commenced to wake up to the fact that styles and fashions in their lines were subject to change also and as the millinery stores held their opening days at the beginning of new seasons to set forth in attractive show the styles and fashions as they then existed. It would be a good thing for them to engage in similar educational "Opening Days" and fashion shows became almost universal.

Now that Richmond retail merchants have decided to hold this autumn, and at all seasons hereafter, a general and united opening week and Fashion Show days, it is but natural that the originators of the business, the millinery stores, should be among the most active in putting forth early efforts to make the four days of this month, the 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th of September, real "Opening Days" in the commercial history of Richmond. Already the millinery dealers are making prodigious preparations for the great event or series of events. On Broad and other retail streets yesterday forces in the establishments that always charm the feminine mind were arranging displays of lovely things to be put in place before the opening of the stores. People are discussing among the store people to what is best for this place and that and what will be the best effect here and there. The result is that the best of the season's new goods are being shown to the public. The stores are already setting for the great show week.

BUFFALO GNAT IS UNDER SUSPICION

Dr. Sambon Not Ready, However, to Convict Him of Disseminating Pellagra.

Spartanburg, S. C., September 3.—Pellagra, its agencies of dissemination and possible preventatives, formed the subject of a conference of Southern physicians here to-day. Nearly 200 students of the disease, coming from practically every Southern State, were present. Dr. Louis W. Sambon, head of the School of Tropical Medicine, London, was the principal speaker.

Dr. Sambon, who is chief exponent of the insect theory of dissemination, declared that pellagra is rapidly becoming a subject of world-wide concern. Fifty-three cases, he said, had been discovered in the British Isles. Hundreds of others, he added, probably existed, but had been unidentified because of the general ignorance of physicians in regard to the disease.

Although extensive research work had convinced him, Dr. Sambon said that pellagra is transmitted by an insect. He had reached no definite conclusion as to the identity of the transmissible agent. He suggested that the Buffalo gnat, a likely suspect, drawing his inference from the fact that the disease spreads most readily along flowing streams.

Dr. Sambon urged thorough and immediate investigation of the whole pellagra problem, whose magnitude, he said, has not been generally recognized. He declared that many cases of insanity, in his opinion, have had their origin in pellagra infection.

To-day's conference was held under the auspices of the Thompson-Fadden Pellagra Commission, of the New York Post Graduate Medical Society, and the local medical society.

HIS HEALTH GONE, TATE ENDS LIFE

Prominent Civil Engineer Uses Rope to Escape Troubles.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Asheville, N. C., September 3.—Colonel Sam Tate, prominent in civil engineering circles of the country, and the builder of many railways in Central America, Mexico, Jamaica and the States of the Middle West, who for the past two years had been chief engineer for the Transcontinental Railroad, with headquarters at this city, committed suicide by hanging this afternoon at an exclusive hotel here, where he had resided with his family. He fore committing the deed, the colonel wrote to several of his friends, advising them of his intention to end his life, stating that his health was such that he entertained no hope of recovery. None of the letters was received before the body was found.

Colonel Tate was a member of Society of Civil Engineers of the United States and the Engineering Club of the city of New York.
